

Googolplex Written Out

Wolfgang H. Nitsche

A stylized graphic of a vinyl record. The word "volume" is written in a bold, sans-serif font at the top left. The number "1000" is written in a large, bold, sans-serif font at the top right. The number "1791" is written in a large, bold, sans-serif font in the center of the record. The record itself is represented by a series of concentric circles of small, rounded rectangular shapes, creating a spiral effect. The entire graphic is in black and white.

Stanford University

A stylized graphic of a vinyl record. The text "volume 1000" is written in a bold, black, sans-serif font at the top. The text "1691" is written in a bold, black, sans-serif font in the center of the record. The record itself is represented by two concentric circles of small, black, pill-shaped indentations, with a black line representing the groove between them. The entire graphic is set against a white background.

In 1940, the mathematician Edward Kasner published the book "Mathematics and the Imagination", in which he popularized the words googol and googolplex which his nephew suggested as names for big numbers.
